

ASDAD is an arcade-style game set in a 2D, top-down, First Person Shooter, platformer world. The player must navigate his way through each stage to unlock the next one, while avoiding deadly enemies and collecting gems to open up new areas. You'll have to take down bosses, obstacles, and enemies as you hunt down diamonds to build up your power and unlock new characters. ASDAD can be played locally, in split-screen with 2 controllers, or online using the new matchmaking feature! New Features: Extra mode "Race for the Idol" where the first player to reach the golden idol at the end of the stage wins! Opponents can use their attacks to hurt you by crashing into the gems you are collecting! The player with the largest number of diamonds at the end of the round wins! My-Controller Mode for local multiplayer! Tell me your thoughts! What do you think about this game? Let me know in the comments or by giving me a shout on Twitter @CheatCC. I'd love to hear from you! The Future of CheatCC It was time to expand CheatCC. I've been wanting to do this for ages and I felt like I was just living in fear of it not being able to become what I've always dreamed of. To be honest, I was also scared and didn't know if I'd be able to do it. I've worked long and hard to get to this point and I know it can be successful, but I'm also just as scared as ever of screwing it up. The biggest problem I've seen is that there are no forums on the internet for any indie developer. Well, at least not one that actually shows any meaningful feedback or where you could read comments or suggestions. For CheatCC, this is a great problem. I'm planning to launch the site in the next few weeks (hopefully by then the site will have more of the features we have planned), but I do not have any idea as to how I can actually get people to comment or even read the review I can write for them. I've started several threads on the forums of /r/IndieGameDev but they all just go into a hard-drive-lock-screen due to spam issues. I've also been reading all of the comments here to get some pointers. Honestly, I'm looking for suggestions on where I
